Lemon Grove Old Time Days was a fun-filled weekend for all. Approximately 8,000 people attended the festivities Friday, said Steve Aldrich and "We had our usual crowd of 10,000 for the parade," he said. "We did a good job of getting the word out as far as the change in the parade route and overall things went really well."

The parade began shortly after eleven with many local community groups marching out in grand style. The crowd cheered for local entries including: "Elizabeth (the mobile) Lemon, City Council members and Miss Lemon Grove in antique cars, the Lemon Grove Little League, Sherry's Gotta Dance Drill Team, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Pelican Pub Pirate Ship, the Lemon Grove Middle School Band and the Mt. Miguel Marching Matadors.

Friday night's dance and barbecue were a great success. The Firefighters served approximately 450 dinners and things ran much more smoothly this year, said John Pitcher. "We had two serving tables this year and that pushed people through the line a lot quicker."

The Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast served 691 hungry people on Saturday, about 300 less than last year. "It was about the same as the year before," said Bob Adams. One lucky man, Bob Workman, won a trip to Hawaii with his winning raffle ticket.

Game booths, food booths and craft stalls were all well visited Friday and Saturday. Of special interest to kids and adults alike, were the face painting booth, the Old Time Days Photo Contest display and John Wood's train display. The llama rides were a big hit and looked spectacular weaving their way through the crowds with excited children on their backs.

The Friends of the Lemon Grove Library also had a successful weekend. They raised nearly $500 from their booksale. "We did very well indeed," said Tracy Brooks, "the total was way above last year."

A final wrap up meeting Thursday morning will allow the Old Time Days Association to discuss the success of the event and start planning and making changes for next year's 28th Old Time Days

Events leading to the formation of the Helix Water District

by Don Heyser

This is the second installment in the history of water in the Lemon Grove area. The years prior to 1913 were chronicled in last week's issue of the Lemon Grove Review.

In 1913, the residents of the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley districts decided that a water supply for their area should be developed independent of the Cuyamaca Water Company. (The Cuyamaca Water Company had been offered to the City of San Diego, but John D. Spreckles had blocked the sale).

To this end the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District was organized and on October 27, 1913, a board of directors was elected. The board members were: Charles Samson, S.C. Grable, J.H. Halley, J.A. Thompson and J. H. Perry. A bond issue of $60,000 was voted to pay for engineering studies and the purchase of 400 acres of water bearing land on the San Diego River. The plan was to pump water to reservoirs on Cowles Mountain and to deliver the water thru high and low level distribution lines to the various areas of the District.

Various factors, including WWI, postponed work on the system. However, on legal advice, the District remained in business levying a low tax rate to pay the interest on the bonds.

John D. Spreckles and E.S. Babcock put together the so called Spreckles System, consisting of Morena, Barrett and upper and lower Otay Dams. In 1912, the Spreckles System was sold to the City of San Diego for 4.5 million dollars, Mr. Spreckles claiming he needed the money to complete the San Diego and Arizona Railway to El Centro.

This was a very bad deal for the City. Not only did their cost for water increase but in the Hatfield flood Otay Dam went out and the pipeline to San Diego was washed out. In addition to the 4.5 million dollars paid for the Spreckles System, the City was now faced with the expense of rebuilding Otay Dam and repairing the pipeline.

In 1920 and 1924, the City negotiated with the Cuyamaca Water Company but again the Spreckles interests blocked any sales.

Council candidate calls for change

Wayne Buttron, a 17-year resident of Lemon Grove and active member of the community, says he would like to make some changes in the City's government if elected to City Council.

"Communication needs to improve between the Council and the citizens," says Buttron. "I am in favor of the Mayorship being decided by the majority vote of the people of Lemon Grove. In order for our City to focus on changing times, I believe each Councilperson should serve no more than two terms in office," he adds.

Buttron's involvement in the community has included: reserve firefighter, Little League coach, chairman of a Cub Scout pack, classroom volunteer at San Miguel Elementary School, usher, Eucharist Minister and a member of the Finance Committee at St. John of the Cross.

Redevelopment is an important issue to Buttron, "Redevelopment is the key to increase revenue. Make a city attractive and new businesses will move in."

He says Federal Boulevard is an area that needs to be developed and he supports the idea of a "car cluster" in Lemon Grove.

He and his wife, Kathy, have been married for 26 years and their annual Christmas display has become famous all over San Diego. Buttron has two sons, Patrick, 22 and Mark, 20.

Band wins trophy at Maytime Review

Drums rolled, horns sounded and they sent in the clowns as San Diego County's second largest parade of the year, the 43rd Annual Maytime Band Review, stepped off in National City on May 5th. The standards are set high in this prestigious event with 40 marching bands competing. About 100,000 people were expected from throughout Southern California to attend the parade with some of the bands coming from as far away as San Francisco and Bakersfield.

Performers were greeted with temperatures in the high 90's as they gathered to take their turn before the judges, in the hottest Maytime event since 1982. Marching units were judged on their Identifying sign & team, their Tall Flag drill team and routine, costumes, uniforms, rank & file while marching, music selection, dynamics tone, quality and presentation, posture and other things too numerous to mention.

The Lemon Grove Middle School Marching Band scored the highest points they have come home with since 1982 in spite of the heat. Under the direction of Tom Higdon, Lemon Grove's District Music Director, they brought home a grand fourth place trophy that all of Lemon Grove can be proud of! Out of a possible 100 total points...our band scored 88.6 and we're proud of them!

Of special note in the performance by Lemon Grove was the superior leadership of Christi Needly as Drum Major. She is in her second year as Drum Major with the band, and we applaud her for a perfect score in her salute timing before the judges at Maytime. Mr. Higdon cited her personal determination as a major factor in such a fine performance.

All of Lemon Grove was treated to a performance by the band in the Lemon Grove Old Time Days Parade on May 12th as they finished their marching season for the 1989/90 school year.

Heyner's art on display

Roberta Heyner's colorful paintings will be shown at the Lemon Grove Congregational Church from May 19 to May 26. A member of the Artists Guild of the San Diego Museum of Art, she is well-known in the area and a painter of the Lemon Grove and San Diego scene. She has a MA in Art from San Diego State University.

Heyner's paintings evoke a tapestry-like effect. She achieves this with her use of a grid as an underlying structure, color layering and patterning. The results are vibrant transformations of landscapes and still life into colors and shapes.

A reception for the artist will be held May 19 and May 20 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Lemon Grove Congregational Church, Glebe Rd.

Old Time Service

Do you remember the old TV show sponsored by Texaco Oil Company starring Milton Berle (Uncle Miltie)? The commercial depicted the famous Texaco men dressed in uniforms including black ties swarming over your car. "We'll jack the back, we'll block the knock" and much more, was their theme song. That was back in the 50's when gasoline was only 25 or 30 cents a gallon. Just plain old low, regular, or high test with Ethyl (whoever she was). For a buck's worth of gas, the service station attendants would check the oil, battery, transmission, tires, wash all windows and headlights, vacuum the inside, make minor adjustments to the engine without any charge except for maybe a tip of 2 or 4 bits.

In addition to all that service the station gave away free flatware, dishes, and glasses with each fill-up. Our cupboard still has remembrances of those days.

Now you have to fill your own tank, check your oil and battery, wash your own windshield, check and fill the tires (even the air is 25 cents extra). If any minor adjustment is made you have to borrow on your life insurance to pay for it.

No service at all, and besides, you pay for the gasoline (Unleaded) in advance because the company doesn't trust you. Boy! I wished I could have run my business that way. I had a hard time collecting for the contract after the job was satisfactorily completed.

If we can get a little dough ahead and gasoline doesn't go up again we plan to visit El Cajon this summer. The gas companies always seem to raise their prices at vacation time or if crude goes up $1.00 per barrel they jack the price up 10 cents a gallon.

I always used to fix my own car when under the hood was roomy and simple. Now the automobile is so sophisticated and complicated that there isn't room under the hood for the engine and me.

Our modern day economy doesn't permit repairing anything as it is cheaper to throw it away and buy new. My wife suggested, "Frank, for your birthday I'll have your electric razor serviced and the blade-head replaced." That would have cost $27 while a brand new electric razor was only $26 so I lucked-out and got a new one. Does that make sense?

As prices go higher, services lessen with most everything self-service. No delivery, no set-up, and "No Batteries Included." No raise in taxes just lower the deductions. I do think I would trade the slow pace of the old days for this modern "Living in the Fast Lane" society.

One Fan - Many Votes

Ah, the power of the ballot box. In politics it brings great rewards, one way or another. In baseball it returns the control of the All-Star game to fans with the swiftest hands.

There is the claim that the nearest thing to immortality is to be registered Democrat in Cook County, Ill.

You could visit any tap room on any boulevard in Chicago and hear old timer's tales of how members of the family, who first voted for Stephen A. Douglas in 1846, kept Richard Daley in the mayor's office from 1955 till 1976.

"Tiz said one isn't deleted from the voting rolls in Chicago at death, one is just moved over to an "at large" ballot.

And if you think they take their politics seriously in Chicago, you're in for a treat as they load up for player selection balloting for the July 10 Baseball All-Star game.

First off, Chicago is voting the game. Secondly, both Chicago teams are in the thick of their league's race and both White Sox manager Jeff Torborg and Cub manager Don Zimmer are popular with the Chicago voting public.

All-Star balloting is already underway and the Padres have at least three players who deserve to be honored by election to the prestigious National League crew.

Tony Gwynn is certainly an All-Star in every sense of the word. He is a team leader, works endlessly to improve the best swing in the game and hustles on every play. He has a strong arm and "thinks" a strong game. He's a "Hall of Famer" in the making.

The entire baseball world knows Tony has won four National League batting titles, the last three in a row. He has played in the last five All-Star games by all that's holy, he should be a starter in right field this year.

Benito Santiago was the runaway selection as catcher on last year's All-Star team and has worked hard enough on his hitting to move into fourth place on the National League's hit parade, starting the week with a .361 batting average. The catching berth should be his. Another "Hall of Famer" on the grow.

Roberto Alomar is one up on Benny, starting off the week's action with .368 average. Robbie is battling his way to his first All-Star berth with a thunderous bat and a wide ranging glove.

But before you can play, you have to be elected. And San Diego fans are a little slow getting to the ballot box.

In the "hot beds" of baseball, cities like Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, youngsters learn their math by working out batting averages and earned run averages. They vote for hometown heroes and they vote for them often. In baseball All-Star balloting, it's legal to vote more than once. And they do. Often.

San Diego fans may cast a ballot or two, but their Card, Red and Cubby cousins are voting their favorites by the dozens. And the schedule is against Padre players. The Padres last pre All-Star home stands ends on June 14. They're on the road until after the voting ends on June 27. The Reds, Cards and Cubs all close out the All-Star balloting period with home stands.

Arise baseball fans. Take a tip from the Chicago voting machine. Vote the Padres All-Star ticket. Vote soon, we've only got one home stand left. And vote often. It's the American way.

To the Editor:

Congratulations on a fine Old Time Days edition. It was neat to see Steve Aldrich and Don Warrant acknowledged for all their years of showing off Lemon Grove's mobile "Good Will Ambassador." But recognition to Dwight Shelly was overlooked. Dwight donated many hours of labor and time. He was a basic part of the L.G. Pit Crew.

Erica Aldrich

Our apologies for the oversight. Thanks for adding to the effort to document the history of the mobile lemon.

To the Editor:

Thank you for all the nice coverage you have been doing for the Historical Society. We like to stress membership is open to everyone--members don't have to be antiques to belong and it isn't necessary to be a Lemon Grove resident, we have members from several surrounding areas.

Keep up the good work, your paper is getting better and better.

Eva (Berry) Pinkham
Secretary Historical Society

Thanks Eva, we think you're getting better and better, too!

Drown to speak

The public is invited and encouraged by hosts Bob and Muriel Nagle of Lemon Grove to attend a reception for assistant Sheriff Jack Drown, candidate for Sheriff of San Diego County, to be held on Tuesday, May 22, 1990, at 7 p.m. at American Legion Post 282, 8118 University Avenue, La Mesa.

This is an opportunity to meet Jack Drown and hear his views on law enforcement and its problems as they presently exist in San Diego County. There will be a brief question and answer period after Drown speaks. Light refreshments will be served.

Costume Contest winners - and more!

The Old Time Days Chamber of Commerce Costume Contest had a number of spirited entries, with top honors going to the Grove Pastry Shop.

The entire staff participated with everyone donning old fashioned pastry chef hats, scarves and handlebar mustaches. As the judges entered they grabbed mixing bowls and rolling pins, singing "If We Knew You Were Coming We'd Have Baked a Cake." Everyone jumped for joy as Miss Lemon Grove Wendy Bailey awarded first place to owner Lennert Ohland. "We've been working for this a long time," he said. "We're real proud."

Second place went to the Lemon Grove Pawn Shop whose costumes were a farmer, a milkmaid and two lovely cows.

Bank of America came in third. The staff was decked out in string ties, arm garters and eye shades.

The Chamber of Commerce wishes to congratulate the winners and thank all those who participated.

Formation of the Helix Water District

In 1924, it became apparent to the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District that it was in the best interest of the District not to continue with the original plan, but to buy the Cuyamaca Water Company before the City could do so.

On November 7, 1924, a bond issue was voted to buy the Cuyamaca Water Company. San Diego brought suit to kill the sale to the District claiming that the City had a prior paramount right, but the district won the decision in the Supreme Court and the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District took possession of the Cuyamaca Water Company. A check for $1,201,980 dated January 4, 1925, was presented to Col. Ed. Fletcher finalizing the purchase.

This proved an excellent buy for the District. In addition to Murray and Cuyamaca Dams, the El Monte Pumping station, the flume and pipelines and the holding reservoirs, they also got the El Capitan Dam site and the private and El Capitan Indian Reservation land which would be flooded when El Capitan Dam was built.

The City of San Diego was now forced to negotiate with the District and purchase the El Capitan Damsite and the right to use Murray Dam. In the agreement the District acquired a permanent ownership of storage of 10,000 acre feet of water per year in El Capitan Reservoir without expense to the District and the right to withdraw water from the El Capitan-Murray Dam pipeline near Lakeside. The City of San Diego had to build El Capitan Dam and the El Capitan-Murray Dam pipeline at its own expense.

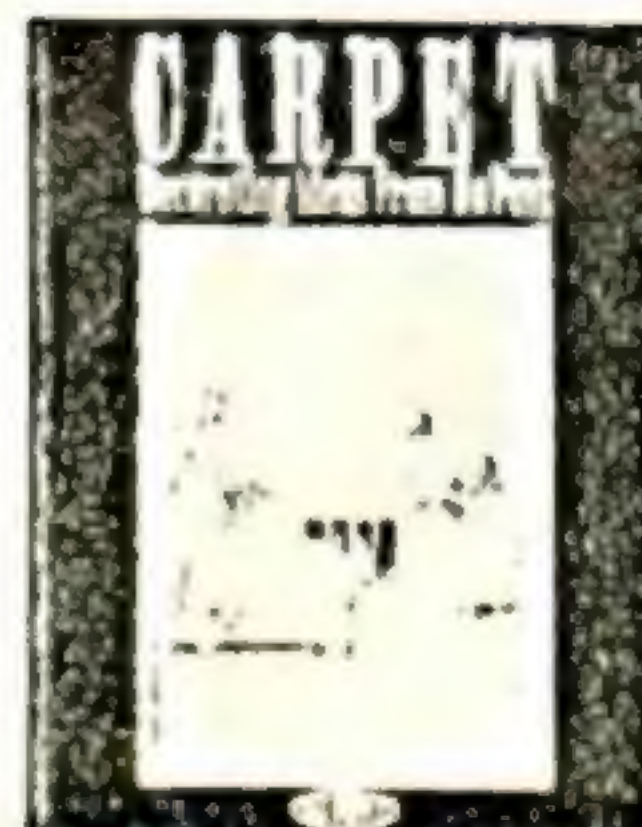

The District retained ownership of Cuyamaca Dam and the El Monte pumping plant. The settlement allowed the District to abandon 37 miles of old flume with its cost of reconstruction and maintenance. Also, all areas of the District benefited with increased water pressure.

After annexation of the El Cajon Irrigation District in 1956, the La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District was shortened to the Helix Irrigation District. In 1974 the name was changed to the Helix Water District reflecting the change from a rural to an urban community.

The so-called Spreckles System was the Southern California Mountain Water Company. When sold to the City of San Diego Barrett Dam was only in the planning stage by Spreckles. The City got only the dam site.
